By the Ship Richard Penn, Captain ALL, and the Ship Mary and Elizabeth, Captain MESNARD, arrived here from London, we have the following Advices, viz.

WARSAW, June 19.

SEVERAL letters, which have been received here, aſſert, that the Courts of Vienna and Berlin are taking great pains to bring about a peace between Ruſſia and the Porte; for which purpoſe they have cauſed new propoſitions to be made to the Grand Signor, by their reſpective Miniſters at Conſtantinople.

June 23. It is ſaid that the Auſtrians and Pruſſians have agreed upon a plan for enlarging their poſſeſſions in this kingdom.

Strawinſki, and ſix other conſpirators, have been arreſted by the Ruſſians on the frontiers of Courland.

Hamburgh, July 2. By letters from Peterſburgh there is advice, that the whole village of Vieux-Ladoga is burnt down; and the fire at Moſcow, according to ſome accounts, has deſtroyed three thouſand houſes.

Conſtantinople, June 10. The Grand Signor has at laſt got rid of the moſt dangerous enemy which the Porte has had for a long time. The famous Ali-Bey was defeated and made priſoner the 7th of laſt month. His march from Syria was not diſturbed till he was within a ſmall diſtance of Cairo, at the head of 13,000 men, when Aboudaab, after having aſſembled the Divan, and got a fetſa, or ſentence of proſcription againſt him, went out to meet him with 60,000 men. The two armies coming within ſight of each other on a Friday, Aboudaab intended to defer the engagement till the next day, as Friday is always a day of prayer among the Muſſulmen; but Ali-Bey, not being ſo ſcrupulous, would give them battle, and had the misfortune to have all his troops cut to peices except 500; and himſelf and three other Beys, who were of his party, were made priſoners, after having received ſeveral wounds. He was brought to Cairo, and carried before the Divan, which was aſſembled the ſame day; he threw himſelf at the feet of Aboudaab, and begged his life, calling him his ſon. The conqueror anſwered, that he ſhould not hurt him; but that his life depended on the Grand Signor. A courier was diſpatched to the Porte, from whence orders were immediately ſent to behead that famous rebel. It is ſaid there were 400 Ruſſians, Albanians, or Greeks, in his army, who were all cut to pieces, except 20 made priſoners. Twenty pieces of cannon were found in the camp, with which the above-mentioned 400 men kept a very briſk fire during the action. The ſon and nephew of Chiek Daher, who were with Ali-Bey, together with four other Beys, were killed. Four Ruſſian ſhips appeared about the ſame time before Alexandria, and were preparing to attack that place; but they deſiſted from the attempt as ſoon as they heard of Ali-Bey's defeat.

Warſaw, June 20. The trial of the priſoners, charged with the attempt to aſſaſſinate the King, has made ſeveral important diſcoveries, for which reaſon the examination of thoſe priſoners is kept ſecret. It is whiſpered here, that ſeveral high perſonages of Europe were the authors of the plot againſt the King. Six Poliſh noblemen, who fled when the trial began, were ſecured by the Ruſſians, and brought hither; and ſince that time the Sieur Zembruky, who was one of the commiſſioners of that inquiſition, was diſcovered to have been a chief actor in the plot againſt his Majeſty, and was immediately committed to priſon. A new committee of enquiry has been ſince appointed, and ſeveral of the higheſt families here are ſuſpected to have been concerned in the conſpiracy, even the family of R-----; and both the Marſhals of the new national Confederacy have declared, that they will reſign their charges in caſe any further enquiry be made. The affair occaſions an uncommon confuſion.

Vienna, June 26. The advices which we receive from the armies of the belligerant powers are quite contradictory. The Turks pretend that the two corps of Ruſſians, one of which had paſſed the Danube at Ruſtzchuck, and the other at Dudracan, have been obliged to repaſs that river, with conſiderable loſs; whilſt the Ruſſians poſitively aſſert the contrary.

Paris, July 2. Mr. Burbeck, the Agent of England, at the port of Marſeilles, hath received orders from his Court to cauſe the Engliſh frigate to retire from its ſtation in the Mediterranean, where it has lain to make obſervations ſince the armament was begun at Toulon. This news has entirely removed the fears of our merchants.

Copenhagen, June 26. The King iſſued an Ordinance on the 17th of this Month, importing, that all Proprietors of Houſes, Eſtates, Stocks, and other Poſſeſſions, ſhall pay annually, till further Orders, Four per Cent. of ſuch Property. The Inhabitants of the Iſland of Bornholm are to pay but Two per Cent.

Marſeilles, June 20. We have juſt received intelligence from Madrid, that his Moſt Catholic Majeſty has iſſued orders to preſs one man out of five of all his ſubjects, without diſtinction, immediately, as two powerful armies are wanted; one in the Spaniſh ſettlements in America, and the other to act againſt the States of Barbary, who have united againſt the Spaniards, and brought an army of 140,000 men into the field.

The laſt Letters from Smyrna mention, that univerſal Tranquility reigns there, through the Care of the Muſelim, who maintains his Authority by very rigid Juſtice. The 15th of May there was a Quarrel among the Janiſſaries, which coſt ſome of them their Lives. The Muſelim cauſed ſeveral of them to be taken up, and finding ſome of them had been guilty both of Murder and Theft, he cauſed them to be either ſtrangled or baniſhed.

Legborn, June 18. A Dutch veſſel, juſt arrived in our road, has brought intelligence of hoſtilities being commenced between the Ruſſians and the French in the Levant. The affair was as follows: Some French merchant ſhips, convoyed by a French man of war, met with two Ruſſian frigates, the Commander of whom ſent word to the French, that they ſhould give an account of their cargoe, or he would ſend on board ſome officers to examine them. The French Commander made anſwer, that he would neither ſubmit to the one nor the other; and the Ruſſian Officer ſent again, informing the Frenchman, that in caſe he refuſed to ſuffer his ſhips to be examined, he would look upon them as allies to the Porte, and immediately attack them. The French Commander anſwered, that he was prepared to receive them; upon which a battle enſued, when the Frenchman, after loſing about ſeventy of his men, was obliged to retire, and make for the Turkiſh coaſt; but the Turks, taking them for Ruſſians, fired upon them, ſo that before they were known they loſt twenty more of their men, and the veſſels received great damage. This affair happened about the end of May, and the news of the conſequences of it are daily expected.

Vienna, June 26. The laſt letters from Bohemia bring moſt alarming accounts of the great damages done by the ſtorms, accompanied with hail, in that kingdom.

The Prince of Gonzague, who has reſided in this city for ſix years paſt, in great want, waiting the iſſue of his cauſe with reſpect to his Principality of Caſtiglione, which was ſequeſtered during the war about the Spaniſh Succeſſion, has ceded his right to the Houſe of Auſtria for 300,000 florins.

Conſtantinople, June 3. Deules Guery, ſucceſſor of Crim Guery, and late Khan of the Tartars of Crimea, arrived at Bujukdere, the 27th of laſt month, accompanied by ſeven Sultans, a great number of Murſes, and two thouſand Tartars, entirely devoted to him. The Grand Signor has entruſted him with the command of the army deſtined to re-conquer Crimea. The Caimakan, Mufti, Reis-Effendi, Oſman and Ibrahim-Effendi, have paid him a viſit at Bujukdere, and yeſterday that Prince had a conference with the Caimakan and the Reis-Effendi, and received on that occaſion his laſt inſtructions in quality of Seraſkier. He is to embark immediately with his retinue, on board the ſhips of the third diviſion.

The Grand Viſir having received advice that the Ruſſians had gained an advantage over our troops near Babadagh, detached three Baſhaws, with a part of his army, who have not only driven the Ruſſians from Babadagh, but have killed or made priſoners the greateſt part of them, before they were able to repaſs the Danube.

Warſaw, June 26. The confederacy has publiſhed a manifeſto, which has been ſent to all the Grods: By this manifeſto, all who have not yet acceded to the confederacy, formed under the authority and protection of the three allied powers, are enjoined to ſign it, and to renounce the confederacy of Bar, within the term of twelve weeks for thoſe who are out of the kingdom, and ſix weeks for thoſe who are preſent, under pain of loſing their eſtates and dignities.

According to letters from Moldavia of the 14th of this month, the Ruſſian grand army, commanded by Field Marſhal Count de Romanzow, was on the point of paſſing the Danube. It conſiſts of between 80 and 90,000 men. The army of Prince Dolgorucki, which has hitherto remained in the Ukraine and New-Servia, is already aſſembled, to be ready to march on the firſt notice, to defend Crimea againſt the enterpriſes which the Turks might form againſt that Peninſula; part of that army is alſo deſtined to beſiege Oczacow.

Warſaw, June 30. The Clergy have offered to the Delegation to pay annually to the Republic 100,000 crowns, by way of free gift; but it is thought the offer will not be accepted, until they make the ſum amount to 100,000 ducats. It is pretended that the ſittings of the Delegates, which were to have been reſumed the 3d of July next, will remain ſuſpended to the end of the ſame month.

Vienna, June 26. They write from Temeſwar, that they were poſitively informed that Field Marſhal Count de Romanzow was actually on the other ſide of the Danube; that a Baſhaw had aſſured, that the Grand Viſir had aſſembled all the troops of the neighbouring provinces about his camp, the ſituation of which was extremely advantageous; and that as the two armies had drawn pretty near each other, a general engagement was hourly expected; that the Baſhaw further ſaid, that with 2000 men he had a few days before come to blows on the North ſide of the Danube, under Orſova, with a body of Ruſſians, which he had routed, and taken the commander, and ſeven other officers, priſoners.

LONDON.

July 10. On Wedneſday night Lieut. Gen. Gage, late Commander in Chief of his Majeſty's forces in North-America, arrived in town from Quebec; yeſterday he attended the Levee at St. James's, and had a conference with his Majeſty.

July 13. They write from Paris, that the Omphala and Zephire, two French ſloops of war, have been taken by the Emperor of Morocco's Corſairs, in the Mediterranean, and carried into Larache.

Extract of a Letter from Vienna, June 29.

"Letters received on the 26th ult. from Peterſburgh, give the following account of an incurſion made by the Don Coſſacks, under Donzeiche Ombo, into the territories of the Circaſſian and Coban Tartars, who are under the dominion of the Grand Signor. On the beginning of May the above General, underſtanding that the war had again broke out between the Turks and Ruſſians, ſeized the opportunity of revenging ſome cruelties which the Coban and Circaſſian Tartars had, during the laſt war, committed in the country of the Don Coſſacks. In conſequence of this reſolution he ſummoned all the Hords, who are roving tribes, as well as thoſe who lived in ſmall towns or villages, and collecting an army of 60,000 men, divided them into three bodies, which were to croſs the river Don at different places, and were all to meet at Teuki, the capital of the Circaſſian Tartary. They immediately began their march, the main body under the command of Donzeiche Ombo, which conſiſted of 30,000 men, marched within three leagues of Aſoph, and met with little reſiſtance in croſſing the Don; however, they were frequently impeded in their march by flying parties of the Koeban Tartars. But at laſt they arrived within ſight of the walls of Teuki, which were defended by ſome iron cannon, and 3000 regular Turkiſh troops. The other detachments of the Coſſacks army, amounting to 15,000 men each, and commanded by the two ſons of the General Donzeiche Ombo, now arrived, and brought with them ſeveral hundred priſoners, together with a great number of black cattle and ſheep. The ſeveral parties were now joined into one body, and it was reſolved to attack the town immediately, which reſolution was carried into execution. The Coſſacks were repeatedly beat off, but at length prevailed, and they entered the place in their uſual way, killing and deſtroying every perſon they ſaw or met with, and put about 20,000 people to the ſword, amongſt whom were 3000 Turks. The reſt of the inhabitants, who did not fly, were all made priſoners, the houſes were moſt of them burnt to the ground. They returned in a ſhort time to their own country, with upwards of 40,000 priſoners, men, women and children, and likewiſe 60,000 head of black cattle, and near 200,000 ſheep."

Aboudaab, who has defeated Ali-Bey, is the eldeſt ſon of that warrior, but having long ſince diſcovered a very refractory ſpirit, had fled from his father, and joined the Turks.

Extract of a letter from Paris, July 2.

"The 17th of laſt month a ſtorm, which fell in the neighbourhood of Belford, and which laſted but twelve minutes, deſtroyed all the hopes of the inhabitants of a plentiful harveſt. The leaſt hail-ſtones that fell weighed four or five ounces, and many were taken up which weighed half a pound. Several perſons were wounded, and many of the ſmaller ſort of cattle killed, while the larger ſort were ſo affrighted and diſperſed, that it was a long while before they could be diſcovered, when many of them were found much hurt. All the glaſs expoſed to the ſtorm was broken, and great damage done to many houſes.

"The ſame day a like ſtorm cauſed great ravages at Sarguemines, and twenty-nine neighbouring towns of Lorraine, and extended likewiſe over ſix diſtricts of the principality of Naſſau."

Saturday the insurance on shipping and merchandize, bound to the Mediterranean, bore an advance of 2 1-half per cent. and before night it rose to near 4 l.

A correspondent from Boulogne asserts, that more than three-score carcases of beef are weekly imported there from England, and that most of the provision consumed on that coast is English. If so there needs no other account for the enhanced price thereof in our markets.

July 15. We hear a grant of 5000 acres of land, near Lake Champlain, on the back of the New-York settlements, in North-America, has lately been made to Colonel Ord, of the train of artillery.

Extract of a Letter from the Hague, July 6.

"We are informed that Sir Joseph Yorke, Ambassador from Great-Britain at this Republic, has just presented a memorial to the States-General, requesting of their High Mightinesses, in the name of the King, his master, that they would give the necessary orders for placing lights during the night, in the summer as well as winter, in the light-houses, which are fixed on both the banks of the Meuse, at the mouth of that river, in order to prevent the accidents to which English and other ships are exposed, when the weather is dark or cloudy. This memorial hath been referred to commissaries; and as its object will not be attended with much expence, it is believed that the request of Sir Joseph Yorke will be complied with."

A letter from Marseilles, dated June 20, says, "We learn from Alexandria, that Ali-Bey died in prison at Cairo, on the 5th ult. of the wounds he received in the late engagement, and that after his death his head was cut off, and sent to Constantinople."

A letter from Hesse-Cassel, dated June 20, mentions the following melancholy affair to have happened near that city. As the regiment of the Hereditary Prince were on their march thither, a Captain made his company halt, and drew up around him the grenadiers, who loved him as their father, because he treated them as his children. He then made a short speech to them concerning their station, and earnestly exhorted them always to discharge their duty: "Above all (added he) never desert, let what will happen to you." Having said this, he next distributed all the money he had amongst them, then drew a pistol from the holster of his saddle, discharged it into his breast, and fell dead on the spot. It is not known to what cause this rash action is to be attributed, especially as the Captain was not less remarkable for mildness of manners and integrity of heart, than for possessing a lively temper and social disposition.

His Majesty has ordered a large sum of money to be distributed among the poor inhabitants of Kew and Richmond, as an alleviation of their distresses.

It is confidently asserted, that the Duke and Dutchess of Glocester will shortly set out for the German Spa, and before their return will pay a visit to the Queen of Denmark at Zell; it is also said that this journey is undertaken on the opinion of his physicians, as the only means of restoring the Duke to a good state of health.

Notwithstanding the currency of the report of Lord North's intended resignation, we are well assured, that Nobleman will not retire without having more honours conferred upon him; money, it is said, he does not want; which no doubt will be readily credited.

The Queen of Denmark, since she has resided at Hanover, by her affable behaviour, has gained the universal esteem of the Hanoverians; and they declare that to serve her, they would not hesitate to lay down their lives. These were always the words of the people of Denmark, and yet they could tamely submit to see her used in the most inhuman, indecent, and villainous manner imaginable.

A meeting, it is said, will be held in a few days, of some of the principal monied men in the city, in order to consider of some plan to obviate the difficulties at present experienced, on account of the late act for preventing the diminishing the coin.

A gentleman just returned from Chester informs us, that it is computed upwards of ten thousand pounds were carried back from the annual Fair held there a short time since, on account of the Dealers having refused to take any gold the least deficient in point of weight.

Extract of a Letter from Petersburgh, July 2.

"The Empress has at last effectually concluded, what will give her the greatest advantages of the Ottomans in the present war, and what she has long been aiming at; that is an offensive and defensive treaty with the Persians against the Turks; the tenor of which treaty is as follows: That the Grand Signor of Turkey, in consequence of some late distractions in Persia, having taken the advantage to seize the provinces of Curdistan and Chusistan, together with many other places of consequence, which he had occasioned to be fortified, and garrisoned with Turkish troops, and compelling the inhabitants to change their worship in point of religion, from the sect of Ali, which the Persians in general profess, to that of the Sunnis, or Turkish sect; with many other outrages and innovations, contrary to all the treaties made for the safety and peace of the Persian Empire. The Sophi, with the advice and consent of the Divan, has resolved to join his forces with the Empress of the Muscovites, who is engaged in a just war against the Turks. That the Empress of Russia shall furnish a body of 10,000 foot, and 4000 horse, with arms, ammunition, &c. and a train of artillery, immediately to assist in driving the Turks from Curdistan, Chusistan, Hamadan, and all the other places, which they now so unjustly possess in the Empire of Persia, and when this shall be effected to pursue the Turks into the heart of their own country, even to the city of Constantinople, which both Muscovites and Persians bind themselves under a most solemn oath to endeavour the destruction of. That the Sophi of Persia, in consequence of the above-mentioned assistance of the Empress, shall fully yeild up to the Russian Empire for ever all right and title to the provinces of Shirvan and Dagistan, together with the city of Tanki, and all the country now in possession of the Muscovites in Gilan, or the ancient Hyrcania, and all the contiguous coasts of the Caspian sea; and that the sole right of navigating that sea shall be given up to the Russians, unless they permit some Persian vessels to trade thereon, for which permission they are to pay a tax to Russia.

"In consequence of this last article her Imperial Majesty obliges herself to act in concert with Persia, in bridling the incursions of the Usbeck Tartars into Chorassan, or Bœtrea, the Indians into Candahor, and the Cossacks into Mazenderan. These articles being fixed and ratified, the Empress is preparing with the utmost industry to put them into execution."

Extract of a letter from Copenhagen, July 4.

"I have the great pleasure to acquaint you, that it is the general opinion of people here, that we shall soon be made happy, by having our most gracious Queen restored to the love and favour of her Royal consort. The King has discovered the frauds and impositions practised to induce him to drive her into exile; and it is not doubted but the authors of her misfortunes will, at a proper opportunity, be brought to receive that punishment they most justly deserve. I have had the honour of waiting on her Majesty at Zell with letters from some of her sincere friends here, who have laboured daily to bring about a reconciliation, by convincing his Majesty how much he has been deceived. She received me very cordially, and in a few hours returned by me answers to them; soon after which some of the grandest apartments in the Royal palace were ordered to be fitted up.

"The Queen Dowager daily declines in her health, and Prince Frederick is forbid troubling himself with state affairs, both which have given great pleasure to the people. I hope in my next that I shall have an opportunity of acquainting you of the Queen's safe arrival here, for I am to-morrow morning to set out for Zell again, with a packet of letters for her Majesty, and therefore have not time to write any more, than that I am, Dear Sir, your most obedient, &c."

Extract of a Letter from the Hague, July 8.

"We have the greatest reason here to think, that the finances of the Empress of Russia are at a very low ebb, as she has been for some time past negociating loans in almost every commercial city in Holland and Germany, but has met with very indifferent success, though the advantages promised are very extensive. A Russian Nobleman is now here negociating a loan of one hundred and fifty thousand pounds sterling, but the merchants subscribe very slowly; the general deficiency of cash over all Europe, and the stagnation of trade and commerce, are the reasons. Those gentlemen, who have cash, do not chuse to part with it on speculation, and 'tis thought the Russian nobleman must depart unsuccessful."

July, 16. By the last accounts from Madrid we learn, that his Catholic Majesty has resolved to have all his subjects on the sea coasts numbered, as he believes the late returns for raising every fifth man, for the purpose of manning his ships of war, have been unfaithfully made up, and that he has given directions for immediately enforcing an ordinance of last year, in order to ascertain the exact number of foreigners residing in his dominions. The design of this order is to prevent his native subjects from assuming the quality of foreigners, with a view of enjoying certain privileges, granted by treaty.

Letters from Sicily mention several riots and insurrections having lately broke out in that island, occasioned by a scarcity of bread, particularly at Palermo, where some of the military were killed in quelling and apprehending the rioters.

By advices from the Danube we hear, that a strong party of Russians, under General Plockzow, have been totally cut in pieces and destroyed by a Turkish Seraskier, near that river. The loss on this occasion is computed at 200 killed and 500 wounded, besides several hundred taken prisoners.

By letters from Madrid we learn, that the Count de Aranda is appointed to succeed the Count de Fuentes, as Ambassador to the Court of Versailles, instead of Prince de Masserano, who is now destined to return to the British Court in his former quality.

The Abbe de Terray, Comptroller-General of the French Finances, has been lately appointed Abbot of Bayeux, worth 60,000 livres per ann. This is looked upon by many as a forerunner of his resignation, and consequently a total dissolution of the hated administration of the Duc de Aiguillon.

We hear that a patent of Baronetage is now making out for General Monckton.

Lord Effingham has quitted the Russian service, and is gone to Scotland.

On Tuesday died, at his seat at Twickenham, in Middlesex, the Right Hon. Lord Tyrawley, Field Marshal of his Majesty's forces, Colonel of the second regiment of foot guards, Governor of Portsmouth, and one of his Majesty's most Hon. Privy Council.

The last letters from Warsaw advise, that the Commissioners, appointed to draw up the articles of the treaty of partition, have been searching the records of the Chancery of Poland, in order to find the original receipt, by which the late King of Prussia, father of his present Prussian Majesty, renounced for ever, for himself and his descendants, all pretensions to Prussian Poland; but as they have not yet been able to find it, it is suspected to have been clandestinely taken away, to deprive the Republic of the benefit of it.

We hear that the Count Maltzan is gone to Spa, and will come back in the beginning of September next at the farthest, to continue his embassy; and in his absence Mr. de Dubulaic is le Charge d'Affaires from his Prussian Majesty.

The last advices from Hanover mention, that the troops of that Electorate, pursuant to an order from England, had been augmented to their full complement of men; that they at present consist of 20,000 regulars, exclusive of nine regiments of militia, and four more in different garrisons.

The Queen of Denmark makes a point of seeing every English Lady or Gentleman that travels through Zell, her Majesty's present residence, to whom she behaves in the most friendly and complaisant manner imaginable. The above amiable Lady has the English news papers constantly transmitted to her, and always seems greatly affected at reading accounts relative to the situation of her two discarded brothers.

It was yesterday morning strongly reported upon the Change, that certain advice is received of the death of the Queen Dowager of Denmark, and that another revolution is hourly expected in favour of the exiled Queen.

The Post-masters General have ordered money-scales and weights to be made for the inland and foreign offices, and one for each letter-carrier, that they may weigh all gold before they take it. Upwards of 100 setts are ordered for this purpose.

Mr. Kuhf's bill, who is one of the King's Confectioners, and provided the three royal dinners, &c. at Portsmouth, wine excepted, it is said, amounts to 30,000 l.

July 17. Letters from Cronstadt inform, that the Russian fleet, of twelve ships of the line and eight frigates, which was supposed to be destined as a fleet of observation in the Baltic, has received orders to join the Danish fleet, of sixteen ships of the line and nine frigates, which the Empress has taken into her service, and both to proceed to the Mediterranean. Thus is the Empress of Russia sending a fleet of forty-five sail to the Mediterranean, which no one pretends to assign any reason for, only it is suggested that some distant knowledge of this affair has occasioned the arrival of so many Couriers at Stockholm from a certain Southern Court, whose Monarch, perhaps, has the greatest reason to hinder these northern guests from coming so near his dominions in the Mediterranean; however this may be, this step is very remarkable, and seems to prognosticate matters of the greatest importance.

Advices from Stockholm mention the Senate being suddenly called together by his Swedish Majesty, on affairs of great consequence.

Extract of a Letter from Paris, July 8.

"A fresh treaty is on the tapis, between the courts of France and Lisbon, which, if all the articles are ratified and observed, will turn out greatly to the advantage of the former. The principal articles in her favour are: That the French shall be allowed to sell Negroes in all the Portuguese settlements in America. That they shall be allowed an open trade to all the ports belonging to Portugal in Africa, and the East-Indies, and that they shall import the products of France to Rio Janeiro, in the Brazils, duty free: With many other considerable advantages. But it is expected that some other powers of Europe will oppose this junction."

On Monday next the great cause between Alexander Campbell, Esq; and William Hall, Esq; will be tried before Lord Mansfield, by a special jury at the sittings in Guildhall. This cause will determine the constitutional rights of a British subject residing in our colonies in America, as it will in its event shew how far the prerogative of the crown extends over these countries, and whether a tax, in its consequences necessarily fatal to the liberties of England, imposed on the inhabitants of the new ceded islands in the West-Indies, can be supported in law.

CHARLES-TOWN (in South-Carolina) August 24.

Last Week arrived here from Newry, in the North of Ireland, the Brig Elliot, John Waring, Master, with 200 Passengers, who intend to settle in this Province. A second Vessel, with a great Number of Passengers, for this Province, was to sail from Larne the First of last Month.

WILLIAMSBURG, September 2.

We hear from York, that on Thursday last there came on a violent Gale of Wind, at N. E. which did great Damage to the Vessels there. The Lightfoot, Captain Dunsley, was obliged to cut away all his Masts, and Captain Miller, of the Snow Planter, was drove from his Moorings, and lost two Anchors, and two Cables. Several small Craft were also drove on Shore.

BOSTON, September 6.

Extract of a Letter from Surrinam, dated Paramaracbo, July 25.

"As the seaport of the colony so much depends on credit, think how this sudden stoppage of it must effect it, and what bad consequences must arise therefrom; most of the bills drawn last year, as well as this, are or will be protested, and but few of the Drawers able to pay the principal, and the damages are so great, it must involve many in ruin: Scarce a day but houses, slaves or plantations, are sold by execution: At present I suppose upwards of sixty plantations are under execution to be sold; and to the distress, there is likely to be very short crops both of sugar and coffee, and the price of coffee fallen in holland near 50 per cent. and the runaway Negroes continue to be very troublesome. Baroone, one of the Chiefs, lately attacked a post, and killed a Lieutenant and 25 Men, not one escaped. There is a battalion of State Troops arrived here, and several detachments are sent to different parts of the rivers; what service they may be I cannot say, but the expence of them, with 400 prime slaves, freed to act against the runaways, will be very great; and the taxes already are so heavy, that many of the inhabitants are scarce able to pay them. It is proposed to lay double duties and tonnage on all English vessels trading here, to help pay the public charges, which there is no doubt will take place. The State Troops begin to be very sickly, two Colonels and a number of Privates are already dead, and the sickly time just coming on."

NEWPORT, September 6.

Last Thursday sailed for Halifax, his Majesty's ship Swan, commanded by James Ayscough, Esq; whose conduct as a commander and a gentleman, while on this station, has done honour to his profession: All the other Officers, and common men, behaved with such civility and decorum, as to give them an equal title to our compliments and regards, according to their respective stations. None of the foregoing is meant to be paid to Capt. Ayscough or his company, considered as sent here to enforce the late detestable acts of Parliament, or as Custom-House officers, but merely as gentlemen like officers, &c. in the naval department.

NEW-YORK, September 9.

Extract of a Letter from London, dated July 7.

"If the Success of the Russian Arms should not meet with a very severe Check, the City of Constantinople will, in all Probability, be in their Hands before the Winter, especially if the active Emperor should do, as it is shrewdly suspected he will, take a Part in the War this Summer, by aiming at a Recovery of those Territories on the Side of Belgrade, which formerly belonged to the House of Austria, but had been wrested from it by the Turks. The Disposition of his Forces on that Side lead us to a Suspicion of his hostile Intents; in this Case good bye to the august Ottoman Empire. The Spaniards have their Hands full with the Moors in Africa, and the Defections in Chili will call for all the Strength they can well spare at such a Distance to reduce them again under their Yoke. These are fortunate Incidents for Old England, and for the Interests of her present Ministers, who would be firm enough in their Posts if they could agree among themselves, but the Bedford Connection will not be contented with the Share of Power they have hitherto enjoyed; grasping at the whole, they will risk what they have got; a little Time will determine whether Lord Gower, or Lord Rockingham, is to be at the Head of the Treasury, for, to keep out the former, the King's Advisers seem much more disposed to accept of the latter, with his numerous Friends, who are far more eligible to his Majesty, as all the principal old Revolution Families will come into Administration if the Marquis should be preferred, a Circumstance between you and I that our good King is not indifferent about; he has declared himself to this Effect, and I do not know any Thing that would put his Majesty into better Humour. Mr. Cornwall refused the Chancellorship of the Exchequer, but he is to be Speaker in Norton's Room, who is to be Lord Chief Justice. We are apprehensive the French are still about to play us a Trick; Spry is sent out with a Fleet, and another Squadron is ready for the Admiralty's Orders. If the French go to Sea, it will be to embarrass the Russians, by which we shall commence a naval War, but more of this by the August Packet, when possibly I shall give you the Operations of Romanzow, in his nearer Approach to ancient Byzantium; what immense Treasures will the savage Scythians revel in when they again sack that superb City."

By Letters from Jamaica we learn, that one third of the 50th Regiment, which arrived there after the Capitulation of St. Vincents, are already dead, together with Lieutenant Miller, and the Serjeant Major; whereas the First Battalion of the well smoaked and well seasoned Royal Americans, which arrived there last November, have lost very few of their people.

PHILADELPHIA, September 15.

On Monday next the GENERAL ASSEMBLY of this Province meets here.

On Monday last the Merchants of this City waited on the Honourable RICHARD PENN, Esq; our late worthy Governor, and presented the following Address:

To the Honourable RICHARD PENN, Esq.

The ADDRESS of the MERCHANTS of the City of PHILADELPHIA.

SIR,

INFLUENCED solely by a Sense of the Justice due to your Public Character, and highly pleased with the Moderation, Wisdom and Humanity, of your late Administration, the Merchants of the City of Philadelphia beg Leave to return you their unfeigned Thanks, for the Protection and particular Attention you have invariably shewn to the Trade of this Port, which has equalled the most sanguine Expectations they had formed, on your first Appointment to the Government.

Knowing the Integrity and Uprightness by which your Conduct, as Chief Magistrate, has been directed, we must consider your unexpected Removal from that Station, as unfortunate to the People over whom you have presided, with so much Reputation to yourself, and Happiness to them.

Under your Administration we have enjoyed the Blessings of Peace, Harmony and Unanimity, the natural Consequences of that Candour and Love of Freedom, which so strongly mark your Character; and our Regret at your quitting this important Station would be the greater, had any other succeeded you than a Descendant of the same worthy Family, who, by his former mild and equal Administration, has recommended himself to the Affection and Esteem of the good People of this Province.

Your declared Intention of residing amongst us, is peculiarly pleasing, as we are confident your social Virtues and private Character will secure the Continuance of an affectionate Regard from your Fellow-citizens, as your public Merits have gained their utmost Esteem and Confidence.

To which Mr. PENN was pleased to return the following

ANSWER,

GENTLEMEN,

THIS kind and affectionate Address, from so respectable and disinterested a Body of People as the Merchants of the City of Philadelphia, is a very great Consolation to me, and gives me the highest Satisfaction that I could possibly have received in my present Situation.

Be assured, Gentlemen, I shall ever hold dear in Remembrance, these your warm Expressions towards me; and although I am so unexpectedly DEPRIVED of the Power of being serviceable to you, in a public Character, I hope, in my private Capacity, as a Fellow-citizen amongst you, I shall at all Times prove myself not unworthy this public Mark of your Regard and Approbation, which you have so generously conferred on me."

After which the Merchants, in a Body, attended Mr. PENN to the State-House, where an elegant Entertainment was provided, at which were present the GOVERNOR and Council, the Corporation of the City, the Clergy, the Gentlemen of the Army and Navy, with most of the Strangers, and principal Inhabitants of this City.

After Dinner the following Toasts were drank, each accompanied by the Discharge of the Artillery from the Barracks.

1. The KING.
2. The QUEEN.
3. The PRINCE of WALES and ROYAL FAMILY.
4. The Honourable THOMAS PENN, and Proprietary Family.
5. The LAND we live in.

6. Proſperity to, and Unanimity between, GREAT-BRITAIN and her COLONIES.
7. The City of PHILADELPHIA, and its COMMERCE.
8. The BRITISH NAVY.
9. The ARMY.
10. The BISHOP of St. ASAPH.
11. The immortal Memory of WILLIAM PENN.

15. General GAGE.
16. General HALDIMAND.
17. DANIEL DULANY, Eſquire.
18. Mr. BOURKE.
19. Sir GEORGE SAVILLE.
20. The FRIENDS of AMERICAN FREEDOM.

Under Favour of the Commanding Officer, the Company were agreeably entertained with ſeveral Pieces of Muſic, performed by the Band belonging to the Troops now quartered here; and the whole was conducted to the entire Satisfaction of the Merchants, who had a particular Pleaſure in thus teſtifying their Approbation of a Gentleman, who, during his whole Adminiſtration, had ſhewn himſelf a Friend to the Trade of this Province, and who had rendered himſelf perfectly agreeable to them.

This moſt excellent tincture has never failed of giving univerſal ſatisfaction to as many as have been pleaſed to uſe it. Likewiſe a POWDER for poliſhing and giving a fine enamal to the teeth, at ONE SHILLING a paper, with printed directions how to uſe both.—What can be more uſeful or ornamental (eſpecially to the fair ſex) than a ſet of beautiful poliſhed teeth, firmly embraced by healthy and ſound gums? To enlarge on the many benefits which may be derived from the uſe of this celebrated though cheap dentifrice, is unneceſſary; thoſe who once make trial of it will ſtand in no need of any argument to perſuade them to continue it, or recommend it to their friends whoſe teeth or gums are in a ſimilar condition. The money to be returned if it does not anſwer the purpoſe propoſed, if uſed according to the directions.

N. B. The above tincture may be had at Doctor John Sullivan's, Druggiſt, in Second-ſtreet, above Arch-ſtreet; at Mr. James Gallagher's ſtore, in Front-ſtreet, the corner of Spruce-ſtreet; and at Meſſrs. William and Thomas Bradford's book-ſtore.
